The Hero’s Journey:
Reigniting a Passion for Service and Leadership

Facilitator: Franceria Moore, MSSL
1. Gain insight and tools that will help you be the leader that your students needs.

2. Examine the Hero’s Journey and it’s place within your role as a teacher.

3. Create a personalize toolkit for igniting innovation within students.
#LeadershipGoals
Robert Greenleaf published the essay “The Servant as Leader” in 1970 in which he coined the term servant leader.

“The difference manifests itself in the care taken by the servant-first to make sure that other people’s highest priority needs are being served. The best test, and difficult to administer, is: Do those served grow as persons? Do they, while being served, become healthier, wiser, freer, more autonomous, more likely themselves to become servants? And, what is the effect on the least privileged in society? Will they benefit or at least not be further deprived?”
The Benefits of Servant Leadership

- Empowers followers and allows the leader to plant and harvest simultaneously.
  - Planting – supporting the goals/dreams of the follower within the work of the organization or in their personal life.
  - Harvesting- seeing objectives and goals realized at the hands of the work of the overall team and not just because of the leaders output.
Managing requires an investment in the process first and relies on authority.

Leadership requires an investment in people first and relies on relationship.

Management should be a function within effective servant leadership.
Joseph Campbell introduced the concept of a Hero’s Journey in his 1949 book “The Hero with a Thousand Faces”
Create intentional opportunities to get to know your team.

• YOU CAN NOT SERVE WHO YOU DO NOT KNOW!

Make them aware of your intentions to empower them to be their best (SWOT)

Help followers identify false futures

Create S.M.A.R.T. goals
Serving the Heroes inside your students

* Help followers identify their superpowers

* Create a culture of excitement around why you do what you do, with who you do it with (your team)

* Allow the collective energy to re-energize you as a leader
It All Starts With Service

The 7 Habits of Highly Effective People

1. Be proactive
2. Begin with the end in mind
3. Put first things first
4. Think win-win
5. Seek first to understand, and then to be understood
6. Synergize
7. Sharpen the saw

Stephen Covey
Thank You!

Keep in touch with us:

Facebook @franmeetworld
Twitter and Instagram @fran_meet_world
Worldwide Web www.franceriamoore.com