Engagement is more than Fiduciary Responsibility

Duty of Care

Duty of Loyalty

Duty of Obedience
Engagement is a combination of...

- Active participation
- Passion for the mission
- True understanding of the organization
- Appreciation for the right level of involvement

Board Source, Leading with Intent
Culture

- What distinguishes good from dysfunctional teams: how they treat each other.
- Norms can raise group’s collective intelligence.
- Two overall behavior findings:
  - equality of conversational turn-taking
  - average social sensibility

Mission Moment

To make every child’s potential a reality by engaging and empowering families and communities to advocate for all children.
Upside Down Meetings

• Action or activities
• Reports last
• Meeting time used to accomplish something
• No meeting unless if there is actually business to conduct OR bylaws say you must meet
Positive Share Open

• Something good that happened this week
• Something that made you smile today
• One thing you are proud of
• How you plan to spend your next vacation
• The best book you’ve read this year
• How you plan to have fun this weekend

Not about PTA. About the person. Positive.
15 min assessment

• Three things we did well
• Three things we can improve
• If I could change one thing about our meeting
• If I could change one thing about how we operate
• I wish I knew more about
• We need to spend more time
• One thing I hope we accomplish this year
Some Signs of a Great Board

• Deliberate about what they spend their time discussing and doing
• Build a solid team
• Culture shift to holding each other and the organization accountable
• Embrace a learning culture
• Professional development matters
In Governance as Leadership: Reframing the Work of Nonprofit Boards, authors Richard P. Chait, William P. Ryan, and Barbara Taylor suggest posing catalytic questions to nonprofit boards that invite creativity and exploration, and do not depend largely on data and logic to answer:

- What three adjectives or short phrases best characterize this organization?
- What will be most strikingly different about this organization in five years?
- What do you hope will be most strikingly different about this organization in five years?
- On what list, which you could create, would you like this organization to rank at the top?
- Five years from today, what will this organization’s key constituents consider the most important legacy of the current board?
- What will be most different about the board or how we govern in five years?
- How would we respond if a donor offered a $50 million endowment to the one organization in our field that had the best idea for becoming a more valuable public asset?
- How would we look if we entered an alliance or strategic restructuring with a potential or actual competitor?
- If we could successfully enter an alliance or strategic restructuring with another organization, which one would we choose and why?
- What has a competitor done successfully that we would not choose to do as a matter of principle?
- What have we done that a competitor might not do as a matter of principle?
- What headline would we most/least like to see about the organization?
- What is the biggest gap between what the organization claims it is and what it actually is?
Note: These books are recommended by National PTA staff engaged in membership, leadership, field service, family engagement, and inclusivity and outreach. This is not the “official National PTA reading list.” It is simply a starting point for you—a series of recommendations you may wish or not wish to use as you create your own PTA book club. Books in bold were mentioned by more than one staff member.
