

Look within

My grandma is almost 80 years old. She is weak and her face is full of wrinkles, but when I look in her face I know every wrinkle has a story behind it. Her life's ups and downs, her lost and gains love and loved ones are hidden in wrinkles. She is a tough lady. Sometimes she pushed away her happiness to make her family happy and strong. She puts a smile on her face even on the toughest times in her life. I learned from her that keep moving forward in life instead of staying in the past. She taught me that nobody is born with bad luck. You just have to work hard for a better future. You have to look at yourself before pointing to others. Never compare yourself with others, finding happiness is hard but it is deep inside of you. You just have to look inside your heart.